

Supporting farmers and young shearers

Advertorial

Cartwright Terry is known amongst his peers as "The man who dances with sheep." so when he worked with Leigh White of Shearing Services to hold a Shearing School for five intermediate shearers at Lex and Toni Sanderson's "Arundel" earlier this year he had a lot to teach them.

Cartwright holds the 'Solo Merino Ewe

Shearing World Record' shearing 466 merino ewes in one day. He is one very skilled shearer who teaches his students "an effective simple way to shear sheep/fleece in one cut" Leigh White said.

Cartwright not only teaches young shearers how to shear effectively but he also teaches them how to be successful in life. "He talks about everything from tying their shoelaces, exercising to keep fit, life habits, sleep, how to grind, in fact everything on how to be successful in health and wealth" Leigh said.

Lex Sanderson commented, "It was good to have Carty passing on his own skills and techniques to Leigh's shearers. It was amazing to see them improve through the week and it will be interesting to see how they are going next year. We were happy to help by providing merino sheep. They came out of the shed cleanly shorn and there were very few locks which is a big saving cost to us. By organising such schools Leigh is advancing the future of shearing as a profession locally."

Media Release

Close to a dozen Central West sheep producers descended upon the McDonald's "North Condo" property last week as Quality Wool hosted a Bred Well Fed Well workshop in Condobolin.

Held on Tuesday, July 25th, ten participants took part in the intensive one-day workshop facilitated by Dr Jason Trompf from JT Agri-Source.

The day combined both presentations from Dr Trompf as well as hands-on practical sessions, designed to equip producers with practical tools to optimize reproduction and profitability in their ewe flocks.

Some of the practical sessions producers got to try their hand at included condition scoring, feed budgeting, ram rankings and ram selection, with follow-up courses in these areas offered for those wishing to further develop skills in breeding and nutritional management.

A successful and positive day was had by all involved, with half of the attendees indicating they'd like to participate in the Ewe Lifetime Management program going forward.

A joint initiative between Meat & Livestock Australia (MLA) and Australian Wool Innovation (AWI), Bred Well Fed Well workshops aim to help

Learning from the pro.
