A BUMPER turnout of close to 30 producers descended upon Wrattobully earlier this month to learn about breeding and feeding to make money as Quality Wool hosted a Bred Well Fed Well workshop in Washpool.

The day combined presentations and hands-on practical sessions, designed to equip producers with practical tools to optimize reproduction and profitability in their ewe flocks.

A successful and positive day was capped off with more than half of the attendees indicating they'd like to participate in the Ewe Lifetime Management program going forward.

A joint initiative between Meat & Livestock Australia (MLA) and Australian Wool Innovation (AWI), Bred Well Fed Well workshops aim to help commercial producers, stock agents and many others to advance their skills in ram selection using Australian Sheep Breeding Values (ASBVs).

The workshop was one of three Bred Well Fed Well days hosted by Quality Wool in rural South Australia recently, with other courses also being run in Melrose and Waikerie in late-July.

The Adelaide-based wool broker has a strong presence in Jamestown, with wool representative Graham Duffield servicing the area operating out of Quality's Booleroo Centre Road store.
